Introduction

Dear Fellow New Yorker,

I would like to provide you with important information about funding opportunities for faith-based and community organizations. Our government, on both the state and federal level, provides funding for projects that support critical social services in our communities provided by faith-based and community organizations. It is my hope that this guidebook will provide community leaders like you with the necessary resources in an easy and timely manner.

As your Senator, I am working hard to provide you with as much information as possible to put your organization in a position to compete for these funds. My office is committed to assisting you in accessing funds for your community's priorities.

President Obama recently established an advisory council designed to connect faith-based and community non-profit organizations to the people and resources in government that can help advance these organizations' important work. I look forward to working with the council in reaching out more effectively to the organizations that work day in and day out to build stronger communities throughout our state. This guide is part of that effort, providing faith-based and community organizations with the information they need to access much-needed funding.

This guide will provide you with brief overviews of grant programs that are available at different periods throughout the year. More detailed information for these programs can be found by visiting the internet links provided. In many cases, opportunities listed in this guide may not be available at this time; however, many of these opportunities are recurring and interested applicants should continue to monitor the websites of programs to which they hope to apply. In addition, I have provided contact information for the agencies that oversee these programs so you can find out additional information on interesting funding opportunities.

As your Senator, securing funding for New York is one of my top priorities in Washington. I hope that you find this guide to be informative and helpful. As you move forward in the application process for these grant opportunities, please contact Abraham Hiatt, my Grants Director, for letters of support, where applicable. You can reach him in my Washington, D.C. Office at Grants@Gillibrand.Senate.gov or (202) 224-4451.

Sincerely,

Kirsten E. Gillibrand
United States Senator

Services include classroom and on-the-job training, as well as some supportive services such as nutrition, health care, child care, and temporary shelter.

3) Reintegration of Ex-Offenders - Adult Program Grants

- Released prisoners face many challenges that contribute to their return to criminal activity, leading to re-arrest and re-incarceration. Joblessness among ex-prisoners has been broadly linked to recidivism rates.
- The Reintegration of Ex-Offenders – Adult (RExO – Adult) program is designed to strengthen the communities to which the majority of ex-offenders return through an employment-centered program that focuses on job opportunities and training in in-demand occupations such as those in “green” industries, incorporates mentoring, and facilitates the connection to supportive services such as housing, substance abuse programs and mental health treatment.
- Each project must address the issue in three ways; projects must create job opportunities in low-income communities, provide vocational or job training for recently released former inmates and must provide mentoring programming to help ensure that the formerly incarcerated can succeed.

Eligibility:

- Faith-based and community organizations
- Non-profit organizations

Award Information

- The program received approximately $11 million in FY11
- Application may not be for greater than $1,170,000

4) Civic Justice Corps

- Each year, Juvenile Courts in the United States handle roughly 1.6 million delinquency cases and an estimated 144,000 youth are placed in juvenile correctional facilities. Even worse, many of these young people will return to crime upon release.
- Civic Justice Corps projects provide young offenders the opportunity to give something back to their communities through community service to make up for past transgressions. Such projects hold promise for reducing the recidivism rate of juvenile offenders by improving their vocational and educational skills and long-term prospects in the labor market and by increasing their attachment to their community and their sense of community responsibility.
- Each project must have six components; they must have a strong community service component, encourage educational involvement, establish connections to the local community, maintain high staff to participant ratio, have a career development component and provide post-program follow-up.

Eligibility:

- Faith-based and community organizations
- Non-profit organizations

Award Information

- The program received approximately $20 million in FY11
- Applications are expected to be for approximately $1,500,000.
